

The changing Wilmington landscape 2008

Prominent sites are being redeveloped all over town - some at a quicker pace than others

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - Commercial developments are expected to bring many changes to Wilmington in 2008, but which ones are moving forward early in the New Year?

Developers of Wilmington Crossing, the 70,000 square foot shopping center located at 275 Main Street across from Wilmington Plaza, are looking forward to the end of the construction phase of their project.

According to Michael Coffman, Vice President of Coffman Realty, Inc., they will soon - weather permitting - complete the outside construction and expect that some of the tenants will be taking possession of their space by the end of February to begin the internal build-out phase. Coffman expects that by late March or early April residents should begin to see signs of businesses preparing to open their doors.

There is still space available in the center, which currently has committed tenants that include Staples, Starbucks, Kendra & Anthony's, Danvers Bank, Sleepy's, Dollar Tree, Pearle Vision, D'Angelo's, La Chic Nail and Skincare, Fantastic Sams and Ruby Tuesday.

Meanwhile, work is just getting underway for the redevelopment of Wilmington Plaza right across the street.

According to John Matthews, the real estate representative for Valley Properties Inc., the project is expected to take 18 to 24 months to complete. The new plaza will include a stand alone CVS located at the north end of the lot, a stand alone Sovereign Bank at the south end of the lot, and a new shopping center to be constructed directly behind the existing shopping plaza.

The two stand alone buildings, to house CVS and Sovereign Bank, will be constructed as the first phase of the project. The construction of the new shopping plaza will then take place, followed by the demolition - in stages - of the existing plaza. The transitioning of tenants from the old facility to the new one will be time consuming, but Matthews says they are working with the existing tenants first, before seeking any new ones, and are "happy that they're as excited about the project as we are."

"We appreciate the customers' patience with the redevelopment process. We'll do everything we can to make it as convenient as possible for shoppers during the transition phases."

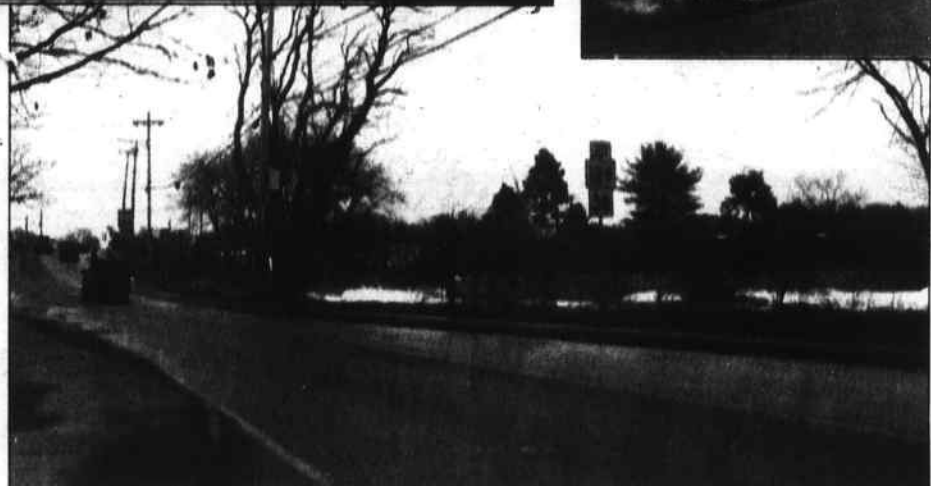

A third development in town anticipates completion early in the summer of 2008. The Courtyard at Wilmington Commons, located directly across the street from Rotary Park at 36 Middlesex Avenue, will consist of seven residential townhouses, four garden style 3-bedroom units, and one commercial office space of 2,200 square feet.

Construction Foreman James Killion of James Michael Enterprises Corporation expects that the first units will go up for sale in the next 30 to 45 days, once the model home is completed. Not all developments in town are moving along at the fast

New voting machines enhance disabled accessibility

By JULIE FENNELL

WILMINGTON - This past year Wilmington received three new voting machines specially designed aid disabled residents. The state funded the Automark machines in compliance with the Help Americans Vote Act (HAVA) which was passed in 2004. Wilmington was one of the 351 communities across Massachusetts to receive the new technology.

The machines were first used last March in the 2007 Town Elections. There was one machine at each of the three polling locations in town serving all six precincts. However, the machines were not widely used. Wilmington Town Clerk Sharon George wants to make sure that everyone in town is aware that the machines exist for this year's voting season.

"If you're seeing impaired, you can listen to the choices or read the Braille," explained George. "If you're hearing impaired, you can read the ballot on a screen. It's helpful for older people and for people who generally have a hard time reading small print as

Ahura Scientific on the cutting edge

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - Safety and security and the immediate identification or verification of liquid and solid chemicals are the focal points at Ahura Scientific, a Wilmington-based company that has created several hand held devices that are providing innovative solutions for the homeland security, public safety, pharmaceutical, industrial and medical markets. Innovative solutions are the reason that the Smaller Business Association of New England (SBANE) has asked Ahura's President, Douglas Kahn, to be the upcoming speaker in their Breakfast Series.

"Founded in 2002, Ahura Scientific develops rugged and ultra compact field-enabled optical systems for the immediate identification and verification of liquid and solid chemicals. This company brings together technical expertise in miniature optics and electronics, high-performance semi

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

They danced the night away

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Is there any life in New Hampshire after the primary? What happens after the politicians and the press have departed?

With the primary moved up almost to Christmas, the winter looks like a long one. In years past, though, New Hampshire held its primary in mid-March, at winter's end.

In 1964, the Democratic side of the New Hampshire primary was fairly quiet. The primary was only four months after the assassination of Pres. John F. Kennedy, and Lyndon Johnson was unopposed.

The Republicans, though, had an active campaign season, with conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and liberal New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller pounding the pavement and snowdrifts in search of votes. The GOP primary had a surprise outcome, but we will save the results for the end of the story.

The politicians had barely departed when the Granite State was invaded by another group. The Wilmington High School Band traveled to Groveton, a small town about 30 miles from the Canadian border. Band directors Al Graceffa of Wilmington and Louis Micucci of Groveton had made arrangements for exchange concerts. Fifty-three students and three teachers boarded two school buses on Friday morning and headed north. They arrived in Groveton about 4 p.m. Friday evening; there was a large dinner, after which the students were put up in homes in town.

On Saturday, there was a morning rehearsal, not that the band hadn't been preparing all winter. Then on Saturday night, the two high school bands, Wilmington and Groveton, entertained the residents of Groveton in a joint concert.

Two weeks later, the Groveton band came to Wilmington. The Friday evening program was a dance at Villanova Hall. Admission was a can of food, which was donated to a charity. Saturday evening, both bands played in the Herbert C.

SPEED UP YOUR REFUND

If you're expecting a tax refund this year—most taxpayers do—get started now to get a government check sooner than later.

You may have to wait until the end of the month to get official records: your W-4 and/or 1099's the income reports from banks and brokers. Meanwhile, get your other documentation together. Your checkbook or credit-card receipts will show how much you spent on doctor and dentist bills. Did you pay local and state taxes? How about charitable contributions? What did you spend on childcare? Were any expenses covered by your flexible spending account?

Filing early means your return will be processed early, before the last-minute rush. If you can arrange to have it filed electronically. And make the most of electronic magic: request direct-deposit of your refund right into your bank account. Refunds sent that way should arrive in a couple of weeks a check can take as long as six weeks.

Get everything together and see the tax professionals at:

Wilmington's Abundant Life Christian School went birthday shopping for Jesus

WILMINGTON - At a special Chapel Service on December 21st students at Abundant Life Christian school went "Birthday Shopping for Jesus." Using a catalog provided by World Vision International in Tacoma, Washington students were able to get together as classes and decide how to spend money they raised on gifts for families in economically challenged places overseas. Gifts purchased by the students include: sets of five ducks, improved seeds for farming, soccer balls, shares of a fish pond, clothing, and even goats. All the gifts are distributed through World Vision to the families in need.

Since October, students at Abundant Life Christian School have been collecting and returning soda cans and bottles from their homes. As cans have been returned, each class recorded the money they collected. In total $851.71 was collected and then spent on the gifts. At the special service, each class reported how much they had collected. Amounts ranged from $45.00 to $120.00 per class.

The shopping list was unveiled and each class huddled together to plan its purchases. Once agreements were made, each class announced in a grand celebration, what it was going to buy. "It is so important for the children to learn about helping others during this time of year." Commented Kevin Vendt, ALCS

Assistant Administrator. "This is a fun way for the students to do so in a practical way and to get that point."

Once the final tallies were made, Christmas carols were sung to remind students once again about the meaning of the Christmas season. "Children sharing Jesus' love with those in need is the heart of what happened here today." Vendt concluded.

Abundant Life Christian School is a private, Christian school located in the First Baptist Church of Wilmington.

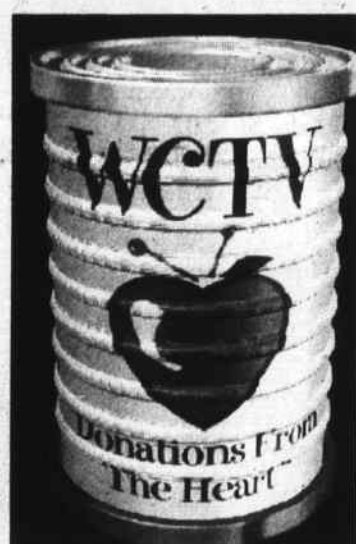

It desires to produce students who are uniquely prepared to discover the world around them, to be inquisitive about its many facets, are creative in their approach to problems, and seek to grow individually all in the framework of Christian faith. It offers a curriculum that is academically sound, intellectually challenging and theologically consistent with faith in Jesus Christ. For more information please contact the school at 978-657-8710 or go to www.abundantlifeschool.org

"Donations from the Heart"

WILMINGTON - Plans are under way for the Tenth Annual WCTV "Donations From The Heart" Food Drive to benefit the Wilmington Food Pantry. The annual event will be held Saturday, February 9, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Market Basket in Wilmington.

They will post a Valentine message on the WCTV bulletin board in exchange for food donations of non-perishable items to the food pantry. Valentine messages to be shown on the WCTV Community Bulletin Board on Valentine's Day on Comcast Channel 9, and Verizon Channel 37.

On February 9, tables will be set up at the store entrance at Market Basket and WCTV volunteers will accept the food donations from participants in the food drive and ask to fill out a Valentine message form. Your special Valentine message can be written for a spouse, parent, child, grandparent, loved one, pet, friend or neighbor.

Food donations can also be delivered directly to the food pantry on Chestnut Street, in the old South Schoolhouse, from 9 until noon. Food Pantry Director Bob DiPalma will have a group of volunteers ready to accept the donations at the pantry that day. They are grateful for the generosity of the Wilmington residents, especially during the winter season when supplies in the pantry tend to be very low. This has been a great success and they anticipate another great year.

In 2007 WCTV "Donations From The Heart" Food Drive collected 18 shopping carts of food to donate to the Wilmington, double the previous amount in 2006. With the help of the community they hope to increase that donation in 2008.

WCTV welcomes your participation in this fun and heartfelt event! If you would like to help them at the store, or to transport the collected food to the food pantry on that day, please call WCTV at 978-675-4066, or E-mail Mike Morrissey at: mmorrissey@wctv.org <<mailto:mmorrissey@wctv.org>>

Letter to the editor

Old time neighbors

Dear Editor,

In time when drugs, violence, and crime seem to monopolize the news, it is so refreshing to send this letter to the newspaper about a neighborhood where good people are like a flashback of times gone by.

With today's families working to make ends meet, there are not many people around during the day. After many years of hard work, there are a few of us enjoying retirement and holding onto the values of long ago, such as being kind to people and stopping just to say "Hi!" I guess it is just because we have more time.

Bob Lewis is one of these people.

We have had a harsh December with all the snow and ice. Bob has been out with his snowblower and sometimes just a shovel. He has helped us without question. He will take his snowblower and clear my driveway and then go next door with his shovel and ice hatchet to help Marie with hers. When we have told him he has done enough, he says, "I like to do this."

He is a guy that will help anyone anytime he can. A friend of Marie's son got stuck in a snowbank in the front of his house. After many unsuccessful attempts to drive the car out of the snow, the boys realized that they would have to dig out the car. Bob showed up on the scene with his truck and pushed the car out.

Bob digs out the fire hydrant on our side of the street with his snowblower. If ever there were an emergency, the fire truck would have free and clear access to the hydrant. Of course this is for the good off all the neighbors on our street.

If there ever were a "Good Guy" we would have to say it is Bob Lewis. He is our guardian angel, or our snow angel, which in our case is both!

Gratefully,
Mary and Marie
Two thankful neighbors and friends

The Family Therapist

by Anthony Ferrara

Should Medication Be a Cure-all

What ever happened to nature's ability to cure most of our ills? Most aches and pains will go away if given enough time. I find if I have a cold, it takes so many days to cure with or without medication. Most individuals won't wait for nature to heal themselves. They must have a quick fix. Pain, enjoyment, or excitement are produced by depending on chemicals. The body's healing powers are becoming less effective because of artificial stimulants.

We should be very thankful for the miraculous cures that some pills provide. We should also realize their possible harm. Doing your homework on the possible side effects of any medication is a must. You may never know if a new symptom is really a side effect caused by the medication. You could easily start treating a side affect that has no cure except the elimination of the pill.

If a person is suffering from depression, try to find out why. Is he/she having financial problems, marriage or parenting problems? Chemicals will not put money in your pocket, resolve a love affair, or teach you to be a more competent parent. They can only help deaden the pain and prevent you from being immobilized from depression. Once you are feeling mobilized enough to benefit, a good therapist could teach and support you in how to seek financial help, how to enhance a broken marriage, and teach a parent how to manage your child.

Now the focus should be on the possible cause rather than the symptoms. It may not work every time, but it should be the first objective. You may need the help of medication while adjusting your objectives.

Ask yourself, "What do I want in life?" If you had a fairy-god mother who granted three wishes, what would they be? Your fondest dreams or greatest desires may seem unattainable. To think your greatest desire will never be fulfilled is a good reason for depression.

Very few laypersons are experts in psychotherapy; however, but common sense can help eliminate unnecessary medications. Your pharmacists can be a great help in monitoring your prescriptions. Many doctors are overwhelmed with too many patients and at times make mistakes. If this happens, don't hesitate to talk to your doctor.

The greatest mistakes come from the drug manufacturers. When they distribute and promote a particular drug they affect millions. Lately there have been many recalls of medications that were tested and approved. One that was recalled was Vioxx because of the potential cardiac risks found in a recent study. Consumers must now find a new alternative for this arthritic treatment.

We must realize the possible dangers of some medications such as Phenylpropanolamine. All drugs containing PPA are being recalled. This drug was recalled in 2003, but has been very slow in reaching the public. Alka Seltzer Plus Cold Medicine original and many other Alka Seltzer medicines contain PPA. If any of your cold medicines have been laying around the house have PPA it would be wise to get rid of them.

The following medications are voluntarily being recalled because of the medication Triaminic that is causing strokes and seizures in children.

Orange 3D cold & allergy Cherry (Pink)

3D Cold & Cough Berry

3 D Cough Relief Yellow 3D

Expectorant

Further information can be found on Google Drug Recall.

(As with Vioxx, it sometimes takes years after a drug has been pronounced safe and effective for sale before serious or even deadly side effects are discovered.

The process of investigating, inventing, and producing a new medication is expensive and time-consuming. New drugs must undergo extensive testing in clinical trials before they are allowed by the FDA (Food and Drug Administration) to be prescribed to patients in need. All too often, the medical researchers involved in the testing of new medications are found to have some sort of financial connection to the very drug companies who will profit tremendously from the sale of the medications being tested. This leads all too often to research findings that emphasize the benefits while glossing over problems with a new drug. New regulations demanding full disclosure of any financial connection between researchers testing medicines and the drug companies who stand to profit from their sale must be created to protect the public.)

We can't stress enough the dangers of medication. Yet, without certain medications, many of us would die, while the wrong medication could kill us. Medication is a matter of life and death. Every consumer should be aware of all the possible dangers. Read about all the possible side affects, monitor the results, and be aware of medication recalls. Take the medications you must have, but be aware of those you can do without. Give nature a chance to heal your body.

Billerica Energy Center provides a clean energy "insurance policy" for the region's growing electricity demand

Dear Editor,

In response to the December 12 article "Citizens Group Powers Up" regarding the Billerica Energy Center's impact on the Tewksbury neighborhood near the proposed plant, we commit to being a clean and safe neighbor. We've demonstrated this in other Massachusetts communities where we have operated natural gas burning power plants using best available control technology, and we're demonstrating it again through a thorough review by the Mass Department of Environmental Protection and other agencies.

We recognize the public health concerns of Paige Impick and her neighbors. These issues were recently the subject of extensive hearings before the State Energy Siting Board in which Billerica Watchers had full participation and the benefit of an expert witness on this topic. These issues were also reviewed by an independent consultant for the Town of Billerica including professionals from the Harvard School of Public Health who have extensive experience with air pollution control and these results are available on the Town of Billerica web site (see April 10 and July 31 reports by Environmental Health and Engineering). These studies support our view that the plant meets all such public health criteria by a significant margin.

This project represents a significant investment in the Greater Lowell economy and infrastructure.

In the face of the public's well-warranted concerns over persistent energy problems, the need for alternatives has never been greater. The consumption of power to heat and cool our homes and run our businesses in the Greater Lowell area has risen dramatically, particularly during peak demand periods. The Independent System Operator New England (ISO-NE), established in 1999 to operate the region's power grid and wholesale electric markets, is projecting a shortfall in peak electric supply resources and reserve margins by 2009. Simply put, demand will exceed supply, and no plants have been built in this area for 20 years. Unless we invest in more capacity, we may experience the types of power interruptions experienced by California residents five years ago.

As a peaking facility, the Billerica Energy Center is an insurance policy for the region's grid, called upon for back-up power during periods of peak demand, such as a summer heat wave, when air conditioners create more demand that the electric grid can handle.

The proposed Billerica Energy Center is state-of-the-art, representing a new generation of clean power, with vastly improved environmental controls - very different from the power plants we grew up with. The Billerica Energy Center will be a clean-burning natural gas facility that will operate in the daytime hours. It will use the cleanest-burning fuel, and it will be the most efficient peaking unit on the market displacing the need for older, dirtier plants to operate during these periods.

The facility will have state-of-the-art air quality control systems, limited water consumption, and a compact layout to minimize visual impact. To minimize noise, the facility will have advanced noise-reduction packaging and meet state and local noise requirements.

We have also purchased the existing power plant on Tanner Street in Lowell, and we are upgrading it to be significantly more efficient and reduce emissions. We've analyzed cumulative air quality impacts of both facilities, and they will not endanger short-term or long-term health. The air analyses include particulates, including those generated when the facilities use Ultra-Low Sulfur Diesel.

Both facilities will be supervised round-the-clock from our Lowell facility. Personnel will visit the Billerica Energy Center daily during the likely periods of operation and while any deliveries are being made. We will coordinate our safety plans with Billerica police and fire departments and they in turn will confirm mutual response plans with the Tewksbury fire officials. We have made that commitment to Mr. Cressman in our earlier briefings on the plant last year. This will include real-time communications, specialized equipment, and training for area public safety personnel.

Area residents and policy makers have questions and concerns about the Billerica Energy Center - which is perfectly natural. Just as we have in the other communities where we built clean burning facilities, we are committed to an open discussion about the project and ask those who have concerns to focus on the facts and keep an open mind while the project goes through the regulatory review process. More information on the project can be found at www.dgcleanpower.com/billerica.

Sincerely,
Joseph Fitzpatrick

McKeown Scholars program

Applications for scholarship now available

WILMINGTON - Cummings Foundation has announced the 12th year of the McKeown Scholars Program, in honor of James L. McKeown, late president of Woburn-based Cummings Properties. McKeown died unexpectedly of heart failure in 1996.

Applications to earn one of two $5,000 scholarships being offered this spring are available to all qualifying Wilmington seniors, either through Wilmington High School or at www.cummings.com (under 'Cummings Foundation,' click on 'Scholarships,' and then 'Scholarship Application').

In the past 12 years, Cummings Foundation has awarded $85,000 in scholarships to outstanding Wilmington graduates alone," said Suzanna Roussopoulos, longtime office manager of Cummings Properties. "The awards were originally funded by a $1 million grant from Cummings Properties and through memorial gifts, to perpetuate them in future years," she added.

Roussopoulos noted that competition for the $5,000 McKeown awards includes significant emphasis on community service, a reputation for fairness and integrity, scholarship, and communication skills. "These are all qualities that Jamie McKeown possessed in high degree, and that we feel he would have considered key in determining eligible award recipients himself," Roussopoulos said.

To qualify, students must be legal residents of Wilmington, graduating among the top 20 percent of their respective classes, based on the most recently published class rank. Applications must be completed and returned to Wilmington High School administrators not later than Friday, February 8.

The program was expanded in 2001 to include non-Wilmington High School seniors, provided they are legal Wilmington residents and certified by their respective schools as ranked within the top 20 percent of their graduating classes.

"Regardless of the student's school," Roussopoulos explained, "the application process for Wilmington residents is being administered only through Wilmington High. All eligible students must complete and return applications to that school's designated program administrator. It is the responsibility of any non-Wilmington High participants to meet all deadlines and requirements set by Wilmington High."

Roussopoulos said that once Wilmington High has verified all applicants' eligibility, all qualified competitors must then also complete a 500-word essay on Wednesday, March 12 at Wilmington High School (only) during school hours, on a subject of current interest to be announced that day. She added that Wilmington High English Department instructors will anonymously evaluate the essays to identify finalists, who will then complete personal interviews with a high school selection committee.

"Cummings Foundation has no direct involvement whatsoever in determining winners - that's all done at the school," Roussopoulos noted, "to promote a fairer, more efficient program."

Andrew Restuccia covers presidential primary

Syracuse University student covers presidential primary Students from Syracuse University's S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications are gaining hands-on experience as political reporters, spending eight days in New Hampshire and covering the presidential primary. They have been in New Hampshire since Jan. 2, covering the primary for newspapers and radio stations in several states.

Andrew Restuccia, a senior newspaper and religion and society major from Tewksbury, is covering the primary for the Lowell Sun in Lowell, Mass. The students are enrolled in Newhouse's political reporting course. The students paid their own expenses and are missing a week of their mid-year break in order to cover the primary. "I think it says a lot about the Newhouse School that our students are so hard working and dedicated," says Charlotte Grimes, Newhouse's Knight Chair in Political Reporting, who teaches the political reporting course and accompanied the students to New Hampshire. Grimes is posting the students' stories on her news-based web site, Democracywise, at <http://knightpoliticalreporting.syr.edu/democracywise>.

Sending Newhouse students enrolled in the political reporting class to the primary has been an SU tradition during many past elections.

Information on the scholarship programs is available at Wilmington High School, and on the Web at www.cummings.com, under "Cummings Foundation" and then "Scholarships." The latter also includes a list of all prior winners and a list of essay topics used in previous competitions.

Friendly's restaurants kicks off Easter Seals fundraiser

WORCESTER - On January 1, Friendly Ice Cream Corporation launched Cones for Kids, its traditional Valentine's Day fundraiser to benefit Easter Seals services for children and adults with disabilities.

Now in its 27th year, Cones for Kids has raised nearly $25 million for Easter Seals at its restaurants throughout the Northeast. In Massachusetts, more than $250,000 was raised in 2007.

Between January 1 and February 14, each Friendly's Restaurant customer who makes a $1 Easter Seals donation will receive five Kids' Valentine's Day cards redeemable for free Kid ice cream cones. To increase donations, Friendly's also encourages its customers to deposit spare change in collection jugs located at the front of each restaurant.

Even when it is cold outside, everyone loves an ice cream cone," said George M. Condos, chief executive officer and president of Friendly Ice Cream Corporation. "Our winter tradition brings a smile to the faces of countless numbers of kids, with and without disabilities, in all the communities we serve."

The dollars raised through Cones for Kids support Easter Seals services, which provide equal opportunities for children and adults with disabilities to live, learn, work and play. Easter Seals services include technological assistance, job training and employment services, recreational and youth leadership activities, rehabilitation services and public awareness programs.

"Friendly's is committed to engaging its employees, restaurant guests and local communities in our cause," said Kirk Joslin, Easter Seals president. "Cones for Kids is the cornerstone of the 27-year partnership of Easter Seals and Friendly's."

Aida E. "Ida" Carpenito

Formerly of Tewksbury; 80

TEWKSBURY - Aida E. "Ida" (Zecchino) Carpenito, age 80, died Saturday night, January 5, 2008, at the Life Care Center of Nashoba Valley in Littleton, after a lengthy and courageous battle with cancer. She was the beloved wife of Alfred F. Carpenito, who died in 1989.

She was born in East Boston on April 26, 1927, one of seven children of the late Antonio and Raffaella (D'Indio) Zecchino. She was raised in East Boston, but lived in Tewksbury the greater part of her life, where she was a communicant of St. William's Church.

She was described as having devoted her life to her husband and children, and especially, her grandchildren in her later years.

She is survived by three sons and daughters-in-law, Anthony C. Carpenito and his wife Rebecca (Kelly) of Leominster, Frederick L. Carpenito and his wife Leonor (Kurs) of Acton, with whom she resided until moving to the Life Care Center, and Thomas A. Carpenito and his wife Jen of Tewksbury; three sisters, Ann Scopa and her husband Paul of Melrose, Mary Gagliardi and her husband Angelo of Winthrop and Fla. Rose Gaeta of Revere; a brother, Dominic Zecchino and his wife Yolanda of Peabody; four grandchildren, Amanda, Michael, Nicholas and Nina Carpenito; and many nieces and nephews.

She was also sister of the late Lena Micciche, and Anthony Zecchino.

Stay healthy during flu season

Receiving the Flu Vaccine is not the only way to help prevent the flu. Here are steps you and your family can take to stay healthy this winter.

Perhaps the simplest and most effective way is to wash your hands often— with soap and warm water. Rub your hands vigorously together and scrub all surfaces. Wash for at least 20 seconds. (Tip: have your children sing the "Happy Birthday" song twice while washing.) It is the soap combined with the scrubbing action that helps dislodge and remove germs. Use regular soap. Antibacterial soap is not necessary. These soaps may contribute to the growing problem of antibiotic resistance.

When soap and water are not available, use alcohol-based disposable hand wipes or gel sanitizers. You can find them in most supermarkets and drug-stores. If using a gel, rub the gel in your hands until they are dry. The gel doesn't need water to work; the alcohol in the gel kills germs that cause colds and the flu. However, alcohol-based disposable hand wipes or gel sanitizers do not remove dirt.

Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs are often spread when people touch something that is contaminated with germs and then touch their eyes, nose or mouth. Germs can live for a long time (some can live for 2 hours or more) on surfaces like door-knobs, desks and tables.

It is recommended that you cough or sneeze into your elbow. Viruses that infect the nose, throat and lungs cause illnesses like the flu (influenza). The flu usually spreads from person to person when an infected person coughs or sneezes and the droplets from the cough or sneeze move through the air and are deposited on the mouth or nose of people nearby.

If you feel ill, stay home from work and keep sick kids home from school or daycare. And keep in mind; most people with flu will recover just fine.

For more information, please call your child's School Nurse, the Wilmington Board of Health at 978-658-4298 or the Massachusetts Department of Public Health Division of Epidemiology and Immunization at 617-983-6800. Year 2008 Town Census is underway in Tewksbury

The annual town census has been mailed to every residence. Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey recommends the town census form be completed and returned to the Town Clerk's Office, as soon as possible. Carey explains that a prompt and accurate census is very important. The Census provides information to assure that the Town receives its fair share of state and federal funds and grants. The year 2008 has many scheduled elections. To prevent needless delays at your voting precinct please complete the annual town census and return it in a timely manner. The census information serves to provide: proof of residency to protect voting rights and to maintain the voting list, allows college students to apply for lower tuition at all Massachusetts State Colleges and provides proof of residence of veterans for future benefits. By law we can only certify that you live in Tewksbury if you are listed in the census records. Owning property is not used for proof of residency. The school census provides projection for future enrollments and related benefits which allows school administrators to apply for additional state and federal funds and grants. Census information is also used for calculating veterans' benefits, housing for the elderly, and other related veterans and elderly benefits. There is a new Veteran column on the census form, please check-mark the column if you are a U.S. Veteran.

Residents in housing complexes at Carnation Drive, Saunders Circle, and Flucker Heights, as well as residents at nursing homes and at the Tewksbury Hospital, need not complete a census form; census information is acquired from the secretaries at each business office. "Your cooperation in returning the census form, as soon as possible, will prevent a costly follow-up," Carey reminds residents. If you are a new resident or if you have not received a census form please notify the Town Clerk's Office at 978-640-4355.

Relief for the Winter Blahs at the Library

With the holidays behind us and nothing but reruns on television, the library can be the answer to cabin fever or the winter blahs. You can attend one of the upcoming January programs, reserve a museum pass, check out one of the latest releases on DVD, or borrow a bestseller you did not have time to read in 2007. Don't know what to read? Check the library's web site www.wilmli.org and click on "Reader Resources." If you look at "What to Read Next," you will find book list links with some great suggestions. You can also, check out the displays at the library and, of course, ask a librarian for help in selecting a book to suit your reading interest.

Safe and In Control Driving on the Roadways

Thursday, January 17, at 7 p.m. Dan Stollo, an advanced driver training instructor, will be at the library. He will review defensive driving skills, such as, panic stops, effective skid control, emergency lane changes, etc. With the early arrival of winter bringing messy and hazardous driving conditions, this program will offer a good review for all drivers, especially new teenage drivers. If your son or daughter just got his/her driver's license, check out this book The Driving Book: Everything New Driver's Need to Know but Don't Ask. (Located in the Teen Zone Y629.283 Gra)

To make a successful reservation you will need to have a Wilmington library card in good standing and be a resident of Wilmington. The system will not allow you to make a reservation if there are fines of $3.00 or more on your account. You may book a pass up to sixty days in advance, with a limit of one pass per family per day. (During school vacation weeks the limit is one pass per family per week.) Museum Passes are funded by community organizations and provide a great savings for families wanting to visit the wonderful museums and zoos in the Boston area.

RE/MAX Prestige continues expansion into Tewksbury

TEWKSBURY - RE/MAX Prestige announces the addition of its eighth full service real estate firm, this one in Tewksbury, Massachusetts. The additional locations include Billerica, Chelmsford, Dracut, Lawrence, Lowell, Tyngsboro and Westford.

Prestige has over one hundred sales agents and continues to grow by adding long time notables from the real estate community including Jon Crandall who recently joined the firm after 21 years with Century 21, and Tom Courtney a part owner of Keller Williams in Westford who gave up his post there to join the Prestige team.

The first big acquisition by

RE/MAX in the Tewksbury marketplace was Realty Connection, a well known real estate office that's been in operation for more than 15 years. Realty Connection owner Donna Sullivan is very excited about the merger and felt that RE/MAX Prestige had the tools, technology, and momentum to help her current team of agents thrive. The Realty Connection acquisition added impressive names to the Prestige roster, including Maria Silva, with more than 17 years of real estate experience and Patsy Chinchillo, who has been actively selling in the Tewksbury, Wilmington and

PATSY CHINCHILLO

Lowell area for 30 years. "There is no better time to build a successful real estate firm," said Andrew Armata, broker/owner of RE/MAX Prestige. "Our agents are very busy and many of them had their most successful year ever in 2007. Smart buyers are out buying right now because both prices and interest rates are extremely low."

Armata's stated goal is to double his agent count in 2008 by offering the best support services, technology, and educational programs for his agents.

Billerica power plant

By JAYNE W. MILLER

BILLERICA - A contingent of Tewksbury residents attended the packed Billerica Board of Selectmen meeting Monday, concerned over a proposed power plant slated for Tewksbury's town line. Billerica Selectman Marc Lombardo blasted the proposed plant, stated that he wants it out of Billerica, and called on his fellow selectmen to express their opinion on the plant. A contingent of residents from both Tewksbury and Billerica expressed exasperation with the wait-and-see attitude of the remainder of the Board.

"We are neighbors," began Tewksbury resident Lori Gallant during the portion of the meeting allocated to public comments. "The air quality in the Merrimack Valley will be compromised by the Billerica Power Plant. The air does not stay in Billerica."

Gallant also worried about chemical spills from the transportation of ammonia and diesel fuel into the plant through Tewksbury's residential streets.

In a conversation with Joe Fitzpatrick, President of plant developer DG Clean Power, Monday, the Crier confirmed that, while the plant itself will be situated in Billerica, the entrance will actually be in Tewksbury. However, Fitzpatrick says that deliveries will come directly off Route 495 and will only use a minimal portion of residential streets.

Billerica Board of Selectmen Chairman Michael Rosa declined to open the discussion the plant, but concerns expressed outside the meeting by Tewksbury residents centered over a perceived lack of cost/benefit analysis for Tewksbury.

"Billerica gets all the benefit, but Tewksbury and neighboring communities get bad air and a potential for disaster," Tewksbury resident Victor Impink said.

If Billerica accepts the proposal from DG Clean Power, the company will compensate the town $30 million over twenty years. Tewksbury, nor any other border town, will receive any remuneration, aside from hazardous materials training for the Fire Department, necessary under the tenets of mutual aid.

Bob Bennett, a Tewksbury father of two, attended Monday's meeting to show support, that Tewksbury is against a power plant too.

Lombardo asked that the issue be part of the evening's agenda to talk about unanswered questions the Board and residents submitted to DG Clean power through the Northern Middlesex Council of Governments (NMCOG). The twelve questions were submitted in response to the Draft Environmental Impact Report.

"If we delay too much longer on these concerns, it may be too late to express our concerns," said Lombardo.

DPW Director Abdul Alkhatib spoke to the question of water usage from the river. Billerica experienced a Phase II water ban all summer and Lombardo wants to know if the town would be "giving away municipal water to cool the turbines" at the plant. Estimates indicate the plant would require up to 60 million gallons of water per annum from the Concord River to cool the plant, most of which would evaporate up the stacks.

Alkhatib told the board that he received a letter from DG Clean Power in December requesting permits to hook into water and wastewater. However, Alkhatib believes the town needs to hire a consultant to determine if water usage is at a maximum for the town and wants the developer to pay for the study and analysis.

Fitzpatrick stated that his numbers indicate Billerica draws 4-6 million gallons of water off the river daily whereas the plant would typically take less than 180,000 gallons per day, or 3 to 4.5 percent of the town's daily usage. As for wastewater, which would contain heavy metals, the plant will likely generate approximately 20,000 gallons per day of operation. In the worst case, the plant can truck water in and wastewater out of the site if the water director is not satisfied.

Lombardo also questions whether the developer was encouraged to come to Billerica, based on language in transcripts from the State's Siting Board. Selectman James O'Donnell attributed it to the fact that the economic development subcommittee merely listened to the proposal when it came through, neither encouraging nor discouraging the project.

Billerica Selectmen apparently missed a window of opportunity to become part of the vetting process and now the board has no authority over the progress of the project, except whatever influence it can exert in regard to local permitting.

Fitzpatrick told the Crier Tuesday that he will answer the questions following "the process" as part of the Final Environmental Impact Report and will offer to set up a working group session with selectmen to ensure all those answers are in place before local permitting begins. His schedule indicates February or March for answering the town's questions from NMCOG.

That may not be soon enough for Lombardo. While his fellow Selectmen echoed the refrain of "following the process," Lombardo says there are too many questions, around security for the community and the water supply, safety for residents in town and communities downstream, to wait until the state allows the permits.

"Every day the clock keeps ticking and before we know it they will have all the permits from the state and it won't matter what the answers are," said Lombardo. "I think it is the job of the Board of Selectmen to have a vision for this community. I never envisioned a power plant for my Yankee Doodle community."

The Selectmen agreed to resubmit the list of questions to DG Clean Power requesting answers to the questions within 14 days of receipt.

"It's ok to express an opinion. It's ok to say that we don't want it. I think we should not refrain from commenting on a project just because we don't have any regulatory authority," Lombardo said. "I don't like it. I don't want to see it in Billerica."

Lombardo's comments were met with applause from the crowded meeting room.

The power plant, scheduled to break ground in March if all the permits pass, will sit approximately 1,000 feet over the town line in North Billerica at 134 Billerica Avenue, though the entrance will be in Tewksbury.

The "peaking" power plant, a 348-megawatt facility with six 80-foot stacks, is designed to come online within minutes, instead of days, when put into operation. The plant will be fueled by natural gas with an ultra low sulfur diesel back up and will only run intermittently based upon need, up to 2,300 hours per annum. The power plant will be largely unmanned except during hours it is generating energy and during deliveries to the facility. The remainder of the time it will be monitored by camera from another facility in Lowell.

Those 2,300 hours is a point of contention for Tewksbury residents opposed to the project and to the members of the Billerica Watchers group, an entity made up of Billerica residents. According to Fitzpatrick, the plant will run half of the 2,300 hours.

"2,300 hours of consecutive operation, that is the worst case," said Fitzpatrick. "That means running day and night; it is inconceivable. We aren't going to run at night unless there is an emergency and we will not run all 2,300 hours unless an emergency."

Based on studies of a power consultant, Fitzpatrick believes this plant will only run at night once in ten years.

Fitzpatrick believes that the Billerica Watchers group has created an unwarranted fear that the plant would have to run a continuous oil operation. In that case, so much diesel operation would cause fine particulates from the stacks to drop over an area encompassing Billerica, Lowell, North Chelmsford, and much of Tewksbury.

"They are just trying to scare people," said Fitzpatrick of the Billerica Watchers. "We are meeting the standards for particulates. We are pretty confident, because we designed our models after what MASS DEP wants us to do."

According to Fitzpatrick, the oil back up is there in case a severe cold snap in the area requires the natural gas company to prioritize supply for homeowners for heating purposes. The large transmission pipeline and its location near the Dracut substation bringing natural gas north from the Gulf and South from Canada makes shutting down in the cold a rare event indeed.

Chairman Rosa promised a public hearing on the matter but did not announce a date for it before moving forward with the agenda.

Last March Wilmington residents Debbie and Mary Anne Steen used the machines for the first time. The Steen twins are blind and found the experience empowering.

"They liked being able to vote using the new machines," said George. "Prior to last year, their grandmother used to have to read the ballot questions to them. They felt really empowered to do it themselves and make their choices."

George continued, "Several Town Clerks from other communities have shared with me that they have had people get very emotional when using the machines for the first time. It's been an incredible experience for some people to vote all by themselves for the first time in their lives."

From January 10th to February 4th at noon the Automark machine will be available at the Town Clerk's office along with the standard absentee ballots. Registered voters are invited to come in and familiarize themselves with the machine during regular business hours. On February 5th the voting machines will be set up at each of the three precincts for the Presidential Primary.

pace set by Wilmington Crossing and Wilmington Plaza. The former Diamond Crystal site, which is expected to be the site of a 108-unit condominium development known as Crystal Commons, for example, was sold at auction in mid-December. Tambone Investment Group, the previous developer, is believed to still be involved in the project, but no representatives from the firm were available for comment. As of this week, no building permits have been pulled and no activity on the site is evident.

Also in the stalled project department, Yentile Place, the proposed over-55 community to be built on Cross Street (between routes 129 and 38) at the former Yentile Farm site has had its website taken down as of January 1st, 2008 and the Brigham Realty Team that was representing them has dissolved, according to its own website. The woman who answers phones for the builder, Franchi Equipment Company, said that work on the site has continued throughout the winter, but no site supervisor could be reached to confirm this.

Wilmington Planning Director Carole Hamilton spoke about current development trends in town. "We're still seeing primarily commercial development right now," Hamilton said. "The housing market has slowed, but I'm hoping that we'll see a pickup in housing again."

Hamilton noted, however, that they are on the verge of notifying the State that Wilmington has achieved the 10 percent affordable residential property quota set by the State's Chapter 40B legislation.

The term "Chapter 40B" refers to the affordable housing law of Massachusetts which mandates that each town provide a minimum of 10 percent of its housing stock as affordable.

Chapter 40B, in essence, gives the state the authority to overrule municipal government in regard to the permitting of proposed housing developments; provided the developer has allocated a minimum of 25 percent of the project as affordable. For instance; should a municipality deny a permit for the development of a condominium complex, apartment complex, or housing development which allows for 25 percent of the units to be deemed affordable, the developer can then go directly to the state, which has a history of overturning the town's denial more than 90 percent of the time.

No such relief from the state is available to developers when a community that has met the 10 percent affordable threshold denies a residential development proposal.

conductor laser fabrication, and advanced chemometric algorithms to enable novel solutions for a range of markets," according to the Ahura Scientific website.

Ahura Scientific currently markets two products with different applications. Their "flagship" product is the FirstDefender, a hand held device that was designed for safety and security markets to identify unknown chemicals. The new product released in 2007 was TruScan, a device designed for pharmaceutical and industrial markets to identify raw materials or confirm their identity before using them to create other products.

FirstDefender is deployed by hazmat teams across the country including the Fire Departments of New York, Washington, DC, Orlando and Seattle. Numerous federal agencies including the U.S. Army, U.S. Customs and Immigration, U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigations, and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security are actively using the product, along with more than 150 other agencies in North America, Europe and Asia.

In June of 2007 Ahura Scientific donated one of their systems to the New Orleans Fire Department's Hazardous Materials Response Team who lost everything during Hurricane Katrina. In addition to a significant loss of equipment, NOFD has been impacted by a loss of support facilities such as a State-funded analytical laboratory that previously handled hazardous material analysis. When that lab was shut down after Katrina, most samples had to be sent more than 340 miles away to Shreveport for routine identification testing. With FirstDefender, NOFD can identify unknown solid and liquid chemicals in the field in a matter of seconds, increasing firefighter safety and allowing the department to quickly remediate potentially hazardous situations.

Building upon $3.75 million in government contracts announced in May, in November of 2007 Ahura announced an additional 2.6 million dollar order from the National Guard. A press release at that time stated, "After an extensive evaluation, FirstDefender was selected for deployment to all Weapons of Mass Destruction - Civil Support Teams (WMD-CSTs) nationwide based on its unique features including hand portability, identification of mixed chemicals and certified MIL-STD 810F ruggedness.

A total of 65 instruments and fiber-optic extension probes will be delivered, valued at $2.6M. Each of the 55 WMD-CSTs will receive one instrument, with the remaining ten units deployed to the U.S. Army Chemical School for training and to the Consequence Management Support Center."

According to the Smaller Business Association of New England (SBANE), "Ahura Scientific CEO and President Douglas Kahn is no stranger to innovation, and its successes and rewards. Under his leadership, Ahura Scientific received the 2007 SBANE New England Innovation Award, and in 1992 as chairman and CEO, Easel Corporation received this same award."

With these accomplishments in mind, SBANE invited Kahn to be the keynote speaker at their January 2008 Breakfast Series. In his presentation "Verified Innovation" Kahn will "share the details of his successful and innovative teams - it's not just employees, but customers, investors, suppliers, advisors and spouses," according to a press release by SBANE.

This breakfast will take place on Wednesday, January 16, 2008. One half hour of networking begins at 7:00 a.m., followed by breakfast and the speaker from 7:30 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. at the Westin Hotel in Waltham, MA.

Pre-registered seats are $40 for SBANE members and $50 for non-members. Pay at the door costs $45 for SBANE members and $55 for non-members.

This breakfast is sponsored by Donovan Hatem LLP of Boston, Mass. and mindSHIFT Technologies of Waltham, Mass.

SBANE is a nonprofit organization committed to providing programs and advocacy relevant to the small business community, in addition to offering a venue for members and guests to benefit from a high-quality networking experience. Breakfast Series meetings attract CEOs and senior- and mid-level managers from all industries with a desire to learn how to do more and grow faster. Town Crier Sports Correspondents Louie Cimaglia and Mike Giannattasio debate whether or not professional hockey games outside is a good idea.

CIMAGLIA: Mike, I don't know if you caught the Buffalo/Pittsburgh Winter NHL Classic a week ago, but it was a great game. Two storied franchises of the NHL played a tough game that ended up in a shootout. But the fact it was in the outdoors perturbed me. Why does the NHL have to have to create publicity stunts to draw in an audience? Poor leadership in the NHL depends on this one game outside to desperately reach for fans.

Sports in general need to stop relying on gimmicks like the outdoor games and focus more on breeding talent on youth levels, and being more intelligent with front office decisions.

GIANNATTASIO: Louie, I totally disagree with you here. I did in fact watch the game, and the only reason I did watch it is because of all the media hype that was placed on it. Playing this game outside was really entertaining to watch; how can you say the game perturbed you? Did you not know that this was the highest rated NHL regular season game since Wayne Gretzky played his last in 1996? Did you not know that there were 71,217 fans in attendance at Ralph Wilson Stadium?

Louie, the fact of the matter is that the NHL needs publicity stunts like these to draw interest. Let's face it; the NHL does not even have a national television contract. In Boston, the Bruins are competing against the world champion Red Sox, the undefeated and record setting Patriots, and the first NBA 30 game winner Celtics. The point is that publicity generates interest and without it, hockey would be toast.

CIMAGLIA: Mike, when I turn on SportsCenter, I don't want to see a feature on how they have to clear off snow from the rink and quirky stories like that. If the NHL was smart, they would disband about 10 teams and consolidate its talent. Sports need to work harder on making what they have better. And more specifically, the outdoor game was just too much work for that to be a regular thing.

The fact the NHL had the highest ratings since '96 really isn't saying much, is it? That game got a 2.6 rating. That's great for the NHL, but an episode of SpongeBob Squarepants got a 2.6 last week according to the Nielsen Media Research. These outdoor games are quick fixes. One game outside will not be the NHL's savior. A serious overhaul needs to be made to the game itself.

GIANNATTASIO: Why would the NHL want to disband teams when the league is in desperate need to generate publicity and promote the game? If they disbanded ten teams from those cities, do you really think those viewers will tune in to watch another team's talent? If they did that, I'm pretty sure the sport of curling would get higher ratings. In a sport that needs all the attention it can get, hockey obviously needs promotions that will bring fans to the games.

You state that the outdoor games might be too much work to be played on a regular basis, but if you want the NHL to be more intelligent with front office decisions, the outdoor game may be their first step in becoming that. If it's possible for SpongeBob Squarepants, which has been on cable for nine years, to get a rating of 2.6, I think we can give hockey a chance to get back on its feet since the last strike and build back some momentum. SpongeBob, who lives in a pineapple, loses audience when fans grow up too, and the reality is that hockey is a sport watched by all ages and you can never outgrow watching it.

CIMAGLIA: Mike, apparently everyone outgrows hockey before SpongeBob because virtually no one watches hockey anymore. And at least our favorite sponge, who does live in a pineapple, can perpetuate his audience. Hockey has fallen off the map. So one gimmicky game may spike ratings, but that's not really fixing anything. And players from the Winter Classic said the shootout was ridiculous because they could barely see the puck from the snow accumulated on the ice. It's not a financially intelligent solution. Could the NHL play outdoors for a few months and then move back to indoor rinks? Could every team even find a place to play outdoors?

I see what you're saying Mike, but the NHL is just too far gone. Disbanding teams wouldn't really make people lose interest. I'm not sure, but I don't think the nice people of Florida care too much about hockey. San Jose? No way. Kick the number of teams down and make people know the names of the players. The only player most people know is Sidney Crosby. The NHL is just a mess, and playing a game outside won't solve anything.

GIANNATTASIO: Louie, while hockey does not have as many fans watching as it once did, it has definitely not fallen off the map. The NHL will never ever disband teams because it's an awful way of trying to attract more fans. Saying fans in Florida do not care about hockey is ridiculous too. Last time I checked, the 2008 Boston Bruins average just as many fans at home as the Florida Panthers do at 14,000 per contest. And San Jose averages 17,404 fans a game, which is roughly 99.5 of their entire stadium capacity!

Louie, while your favorite sponge may be perpetuating the audience now, I doubt he will be doing that in a few years from now. With regular outdoor games and other gimmicks and promotions, hockey will be the event people are going to be wanting to watch. If there is ever a Bruins game played outdoors at Fenway Park, for example, the publicity would be so incredible that fans would want to feed off it and watch all their games at the Garden. Who knows, we could even come back and talk about how I was right about this one.

The Wilmington High School boys hockey team is off to a 7-1 start under the direction of head coach Steve Scanlon after knocking off North Andover and Triton this past week. (JoeBrownphotos.com)

WHS Boys Hockey team off to 7-1 start

Icing the competition

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High School boys hockey team kept up its red hot streak knocking off two more teams this past week, pushing their record to 7-1-0 overall, including a 5-1-0 in the Cape Ann League which is good first place.

Last Wednesday, Wilmington needed some unexpected help as back-up goalie Zack Rosa got the call in the net, as starter Michael Cabral was out with an ailment. Rosa was very good inbetween the pipes making 18 saves to record his first varsity win as the Wildcats knocked off a very strong North Andover club, 4-3.

Then on Saturday afternoon, Wilmington made it five wins in a row by trouncing Triton Regional, 5-1, at the Ristuccia Exposition Center. Triton had come into the game with an unbeaten mark in the league and left with its first blemish.

Wilmington now has 10 points with its 5-0-1 mark for the first place mark in the league with North Reading (4-0-1), Lynnfield (4-2-1) and Triton (3-1-2) all right behind them in a very crowded field. Since losing to Lynnfield, 8-2, Wilmington has reeled off five straight wins, which includes outscoring opponents, 31-8. Of the team's eight games this year, six times Wilmington has held opponents to two goals or less, a very impressive statistic.

Wilmington set the tone early in the win over Triton, scoring just 37 seconds into the game. That score stood after the first period and the Wildcats poured on the pressure in the second period finding the net four times, including two in a span of 29 seconds. Five different players scored goals for the home town team, who now look like the program of old getting contributions from everyone, while playing very well as a team.

"Yeah we have been (on a roll)," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "We've been getting some scoring out of different people and that's what you like to see and that's what you need."

Wilmington got on the board on the first shift of the game. The very potent forward line of Eric Siegel, Michael Enwright and Ernie Mello surely made a lot of noise in this game. Siegel had the puck inside his own blue line on the left hand side. He sent a nice cross ice pass ahead to Mello who came streaking down the right wing boards into the Triton zone. As he took the defenseman wide with him, Mello slid the puck over to Enwright, who tapped in the puck for a very pretty and very quick goal.

The second period was all Wilmington on the scoreboard, but the 'Cats only managed eight shots and converted on four of them. Tim Parker scored on a wrist shot from the point with 12:41 left in the period which eventually turned into the game winning goal.

After Triton cut the lead in half, Wilmington put the game away scoring two goals in just 39 seconds. The first came as Mello was sent in on a break-away after collecting a long pass off the left hand boards. As he came in closer to the Triton goalie, he was never able to a shot off. Instead of getting frustrated, he stayed with the puck, circled deep in the right hand corner, and found Siegel who came streaking in with a pass. He took it and took a low shot to the left hand corner giving Wilmington the 3-1 lead.

Then Mello's hard work paid off again as a bouncing puck was batted out by the Triton goalie. The puck was flipped into the air and Mello put it back on the ice, before getting off a quick shot which landed in the back of the net making it 4-1.

Wilmington scored its final goal of the second period and in the game as Sean Tavares walked in for a loose puck off a face-off and quickly sent a hard wrist shot to the top corner making it 5-1.

Things got a little chippy the rest of the way with six penalties called in the third period, including five on Wilmington but the 'Cats were able to kill off each of the minor calls.

"It was a little undisciplined for my liking especially at the end there," said Scanlon. "I understand sticking up for each other but we had some guys running around on the hunt (so I didn't like that). We let them come back a little bit but the effort was good and they were unbeaten in the league so that's one you would like to get. So all in all it was a good effort, and it's good to be able to bring (Triton) back to the pack (of the Cape Ann League)."

Defensively Wilmington continues to improve. Last year the 'Cats had a lot of trouble in that area and through eight games this year, for the most part it's been a pretty solid area of play behind the likes of Johnny Kincaid, Brian Svensson, Parker, Corey Tobin, Max Wilkins and Dan Cushing.

"Yeah the defense is getting better," said Scanlon. "They are limiting (opposing teams shots) and keeping everything on the perimeter. And Michael is good when he sees everything."

And Cabral was solid. He turned away 13 shots in the third period, including two gems on a Triton power play.

"Cabral has been solid every night," said Scanlon. "He was good today. We have been getting solid goaltending, and when you get that, plus the size and speed we have up front and the experience we got, we can be pretty good."

In the win over North Andover, the 'Cats trailed by a goal entering the third period but got goals by Mello inside the first minute and a power play tally by Enwright less than two minutes later giving the 'Cats a 4-3 lead. Wilmington was called for a minor penalty with less than two minutes left and North Andover took out the goalie for the two-man advantage, and the Wildcats held on, mostly due to Rosa, who was outstanding to improve to 2-0.

"Zack played great," said Scanlon. "Late in the game when they were on the 6-on-4, he made a couple of great saves - some really great saves."

Mello ended the night with a goal and three assists, while, Eric Siegel had a goal and two assists and Max Wilkins scored the team's first goal.

Wilmington faced Pentucket Regional on Wednesday night with results not known as of presstime. Then Wilmington will have a week off before facing Masconomet on the 16th, also on the road. The next home game will be on Saturday the 19th against Lynnfield.

Fahey and Brown lead girls to a pair of dramatic victories

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Sophomore Amy Fahey notched her sixth double-double of the season, and senior co-captain Alyssa Brown converted 7-of-8 free throws in overtime to help lift the Wilmington High School girls basketball team past Newburyport, 59-55, on Tuesday night.

The win now puts the reigning Division 3 North sectional finalists at 4-4 on the season.

"We needed the win," said head coach Jay Keane. "(Newburyport is a) tough place to play."

Fahey, who has been battling sore hips from a year ago, has been nothing short of sensational for the Wildcats. She led the team with 18 points and added 11 rebounds with three blocks.

"Amy has been very consistent," said Keane. "She works very hard. She's been going strong to the basket, and she has a really good first step. She gets baskets on put backs, and she's good in and around the basket. She's also playing really good defense, and she's a really quick player and a hard worker."

Wilmington led by three until the Clippers scored a trey just before the buzzer to tie the game up at 51, and sending it to overtime. That's when Brown led the way converting on all but one freebie on her way to a 15-point night, while she also had 8 rebounds and 4 assists. Stephanie Sauve was the third player in double figures as she ended with ten.

"The captains (Brown and Sauve) have been good leaders," said Keane.

Lauren Hitchins had 9 points and 8 rebounds, and sophomore Jessica Stuke came off the bench and ended the game with 5 points, 6 rebounds and 4 assists.

"The last three games Lauren has been playing very well," said Keane. "We just need her to be consistent, playing good defense and rebounding."

On Friday night, Wilmington was defeated by an undefeated Ipswich (7-0) squad, 46-43, in a well played back-and-forth contest, also on the road. Sauve led the way with 19 points - including five treys - while, Fahey added 12. The Wildcats did a fantastic job defensively on Amber Smith, arguably one of the best players around, as she ended with just 15 points.

Then two days earlier, the Wildcats pulled off a dramatic victory defeating Salem, 49-47, in a nonleague game played at home. Fahey gave Wilmington the win as she connected on a shot just before the final buzzer went off. She ended the night with 17 points, 11 rebounds and 5 blocks. Stuke, Sauve and Hitchins combined to score 21 points, while, Hitchins also pulled down 8 boards.

Wilmington is now 4-4 and have a busy schedule ahead. On Wednesday night as this paper hits the streets, the 'Cats took on a very good Methuen team in a nonleague game. Methuen defeated the Wildcats earlier this season. Wilmington will continue its busy schedule hosting North Reading on Friday and Amesbury on Tuesday with all three games slated to begin at 7:00 pm.

"I'm very happy to be 4-4 right now," said Keane. "Our losses are against good tough teams. We have lost to Methuen, North Andover, Algonquin and Ipswich - against two Division 1 teams, a good solid Division 2 team and one of the best Division 3 teams in the state.

"The early part of our schedule has been a killer, but now we're getting into our league schedule and we're going to have to fight for every win. There's no easy ones out there."

WHS Track Round-Up

Wildcat boys swarm the Hornets

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The long layoff over the holidays did little to derail the great start to the season by the Wilmington High boys indoor track team. Last Wednesday afternoon at North Reading, in their first meet after an 11 day layoff the Wildcats showed no signs of rust with an impressive 46-40 win over the previously unbeaten Hornets.

The win improved the Wildcats record on the season to 4-1 overall, and the momentum continued into the weekend where several young Wildcats had a very impressive showing at the freshman-sophomore meet at the Reggie Lewis Center on Sunday afternoon.

Last Wednesday the Wildcats picked up right where they had left off before the holiday break with several outstanding performances throughout their lineup to earn the victory over North Reading.

"North Reading was undefeated going into the meet so we knew they would be a good team and they were," Wilmington coach Bob Cripps said. "It was a back and forth meet right from the start and it was not decided until the last event of the day which was the relay."

After Tyler Calway got the Wildcats on the board in the first event of the day with a second place finish in the hurdles with a time of 7.2, they trailed 6-3, but quickly tied things up by taking first and third in the dash with senior Kyle Lunt grabbing a first place finish in 5.8 followed closely by freshman Francis Cunningham in 6.1.

The meet continued in much the same fashion, with the Wildcats coming back to tie the meet after seniors Nate Clarkin and Nick Farnsworth took the top spots in the shot put, with Clarkin throwing for 45-8.5 and Farnsworth following up with a 42.5.

Seniors Nick Jannone and Tom Barry then took second and third in the 300 with Jannone posting a time of 36.4 and Barry a time of 37.2. Following that race, junior Jimmy DiNuccio and senior Vinny Papageorgiou took first and second in the 600 meters with times of 23.7 and 24.9 to give the Wildcats a seven point lead.

Jared Peters took a third place finish in the high jump with height of 5'3, and after sophomore Kevin Flaherty took first in the mile in a time of 5:02 followed by freshman Zack Sears in a time of 5:18 for third place, the Wildcats had a one point lead and both team knew the meet would all come down to the 4 x 400 relay.

The team of freshman Mark Shibilila, DiNuccio, junior Bobby Folk and Barry took the win that secured the victory.

"We were in second place at the first handoff by about 10 yards, but DiNuccio took the handoff and just sprinted past the North Reading kid like he was standing still," Cripps said. "Then the kid tried to accelerate too fast and pulled a hamstring so we had the race won right there."

But Cripps was quick to add that even without the unfortunate injury suffered by North Reading the Wildcats were well on their way to a victory in the event.

"DiNuccio had already passed him and then he ran his 400 in 57 seconds," Cripps said. "And Folk came next and ran his in 56 seconds with nobody racing against him. Overall we finished with a time of 3:55 which is one of the best in the league this year."

Other top finishers throughout the meet for the Wildcats included Tom Valente with a third place finish in the two mile with a time of 11:35 and Caleb Rogers and Bobby Folk with second and third place finishes in the 1000 meters with times of 2:42.6 and 2:57.7 respectively. Folk's time was a little slower than usual, as with the race well in hand he was instructed by Cripps to conserve some energy for the all important relay.

The Wildcats were hoping to continue their momentum in head to head meets when they took on traditional power Masconomet on Wednesday. Results of the meet were not available at press time.

"I have a feeling that for the first time since we have been in the league that we will beat Masco," Cripps said. "As long as everybody is healthy I think we have a real good chance."

If the Wildcats are going to be successful against Masco and against the rest of the league, they will have to continue to get good performances up and down their roster, including from their younger members as they have all season long.

Some of that young talent was on display on Sunday afternoon at the Reggie Lewis Center at the annual freshman-sophomore meet. The Wildcats had three runners score points at the meet, led by sophomore Caleb Rogers who won the 1,000 meters with a personal best time of 2:47.8 which qualified him for the state meet.

"He ran a great race," Cripps said. "I motivated him really well. I told him that if he won the 1,000 he would not have to race in the relay, and sure enough he went out and won it."

Freshman Marc Shibilila took fifth out of 102 runners in the 300 meters in a time of 39.75, while sophomore Kevin Flaherty took fourth out of 85 runners in the one mile in a time of 4:54.

Other runners who did not score points, but performed very well were Rogers and Flaherty in the high jump with Rogers taking 10th place with a height of 5'3 and Flaherty following close behind with a personal best of 5'0 which was good enough for 12th place.

Freshman Francis Cunningham reached the semifinals and took 15th overall in the 55 meter hurdles in a time of 10.1 and Jeff Kannally improved his personal best by 11 seconds with a 23rd place finish in the 600 meters in a time of 1:41.7. Kannally had entered the race ranked 55th.

Eric Murray entered the two mile event ranked 52nd, but snared a 25th place finish with a time of 13:13, while Zack Sears finished 8th in the mile with a personal best time of 5:10.

"Virtually everybody improved and did a personal best which was very good," Cripps said. "I was very pleased to see so many kids do so well."

Girls Track

The WHS Girls Track-And-Field team trounced Lynnfield, 71-15. Wilmington swept in four events including the shot put, 55-meter dash, the mile and two mile which was the major factor in the win.

Lizz Chin led all sprinters finishing with a 6.3 time in the 55-meter dash, a time that qualified her for the state meet. Erin Conway threw 29 feet to take first place in the shot put. Colleen Kennedy was tops in the mile coming across at 6:02, and Natalie Russo was easily the winner in the two mile coming in at 12:14.

Other winners include Carmen Palumbo in the hurdles, Brittney McLaughlin in the 300, Lisa Rooker in the 600, Kristi Adley in the 1,000 (3:21), and the 4x400 relay team of Palumbo, Lauren Waring, Michelle Parece and Adley.

WHS Boys Basketball now 6-1

Wildcats make defense a priority

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After struggling on the defensive end in their previous handful of games, the Wilmington High School boys basketball team put forth tremendous back-to-back performances and knocked off both Ipswich, 87-30 on Friday and then Newburyport, 58-46, on Tuesday, to improve to 6-1 overall and 3-0 in Cape Ann League play.

Friday night, fans saw probably the best team performance by any Wildcat squad in many years. Defensively, the Wildcats were outstanding really limiting what Ipswich could do with the ball. That led to a large number of transitional baskets, with heads up passes, 2-on-1 breaks, and many give-and-gos.

"(Friday's) performance, by far was the best defensive performance by any team that I've had here in my 19 years as coach," said head coach Jim McCune. "The discipline, the intensity, the work ethic, the weak side play, everything (was fantastic). We didn't commit many fouls, we stayed disciplined and the guys did a great job tonight. Even the baskets (Ipswich) scored we were in their faces."

The week before, McCune was critical of the team's lack of effort on the defensive side. He said the team just went back to the basics.

"The intensity and taking it to them is the direction where we are trying to go right now," he said. "If Matt Bibeau gets in foul trouble, he gets in foul trouble. Tonight he got into foul trouble and Evan Borseti, Mike Murphy and Scott Bonica did an excellent job filling in for him. Basically Matt didn't play much tonight, so to beat a team like that - you know what they took North Andover to overtime earlier this year and lost by three. So for us to take this game without Matt really playing is a credit to all of the other kids on the team. It proves to them that they can win without him.

"I think with these guys it's just trying to get them to match my intensity - getting their intensity to match mine. Getting their mind set to go along with mine. The great thing about (Friday) is we can hold them accountable for anything less than what we saw tonight. I mean we may not shoot the ball well, or as well in other games as we did tonight, but we held that team to 30 points. And what we have really talked about lately is getting teams back to 50 points or under."

"We had given up 60 or more points in three consecutive games and that's not going to get you anywhere. The goal was 50 or under and we held this team to 30 and it was an excellent defensive performance by the entire team."

Wilmington stormed out to a 16-2 lead just 4:25 into the game. Craig Melillo started off on fire scoring the team's first five points on his way to an 11-point first quarter performance. Matt Bibeau got into the action early on with six first quarter points. And then Zack Fahey added 8 in the first quarter and 11 in the second quarter. Fahey ended the night with 21 points, followed by Melillo with 11, Bibeau with 10, and Victor Dellisola, who came off the bench and added 9.

"We had such a good first half so the challenge for us in the second half was not to let up, to not lose our discipline and not just let the time go by - we didn't want garbage time," said McCune. "The last group that was out there did a tremendous job defensively, even though Ipswich's group was much bigger, they did an excellent job of moving the ball and tonight was one of those nights where everything we were throwing up went in."

On Tuesday night, the 'Cats defeated Newburyport as Fahey led the way with 18 points, followed by Bibeau who had 15 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. Mike Manganelli was the third player in double figures with 11, while Melillo added eight. The four starters combined for 52 of the team's 58 points.

"We played a great first half," said McCune. "Defensively we played great and we shot the ball really well. In the second half, we didn't press as well as we did in the first half and basically did enough to hang on."

Wilmington will be on the road for its next two games with stops at North Reading on Friday and Amesbury on Tuesday.

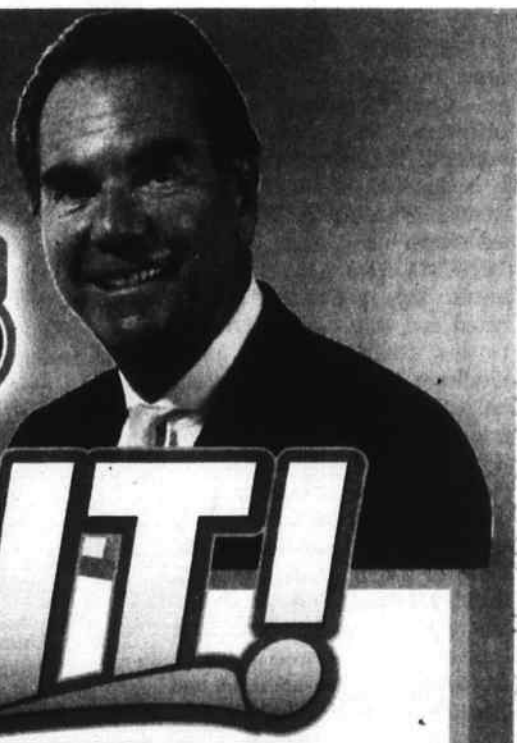

Wilmington High's Zack Fahey goes over the top to shoot a basket during a recent boys basketball game played at home. Fahey and the rest of the team are currently 6-1 on the season.

Bay State Classic Gymnastics Meet

LOWELL - The annual Bay State Classic Gymnastics meet hosted by Walker's Gymnastics and Dance will take place from January 18th through the 20th at the Costello Gym at UMass Lowell. Over 600 athletes from 32 gyms are slated to compete, some traveling from as far away as MD, NJ and NY. The athletes will compete on the vault, uneven bars, balance beam, and floor and will vie for both team and individual awards. The meet is planned and run by Walker-Overs, Inc., the parent organization at Walker's Gymnastics. This year a portion of the meet fees will be donated to breast cancer research.

While the schedule is subject to change, at present the upper level gymnasts, levels 9 and 10, will be competing Friday evening, January 18th. Levels 5 through 8 are scheduled to compete on Saturday the 19th and the level 4 gymnasts and Prep-ops will compete on Sunday the 20th. The final schedules and session times will be posted at www.walkers-gymnasticsdance.com.

The meet is held under the auspices of the US Gymnastics Association (USAG), the nationwide governing body for competitive gymnastics. The USAG sets the competitive levels and rules for competition at such meets. There are over 90,000 athlete members of the USAG, over two thirds of whom compete in the women's gymnastics program. Levels 4 through 6 are referred to as "compulsory" levels as all competitors at those levels perform the same routines. Level 7 through 10 are the "optional" levels, meaning that, while the routines must have certain required elements, they are individually choreographed for each gymnast. Level 10 is considered "pre-elite" and is achieved only by a handful of the most dedicated gymnasts. According to the USAG, there are currently 1700 level 10 gymnasts in the US. Prep-op gymnasts participate in an alternative program to the levels 1 through 10 under USAG's rules. More information about gymnastics and USAG competitions can be found at www.usa-gymnastics.org.

Walker's Gymnastics and Dance will send 58 of its own gymnasts to the meet. Already this year, Walker's gymnasts have traveled to meets in Massachusetts and New York and have brought home many individual and team awards. Walker's is the home of the 2007 second place state championship teams for Level 5 and Prep-Op Advanced, as well as the 2007 all around champions for level 7 (Corey Holman), level 5 (Natasha Ayala), level 4 (Emily Sarica) and Prep-Op Novice (Alexis Hebert), and several individual event champions at the various levels.

The public is welcome to come and watch this exciting event. Session times and ticket prices can be found at www.walkersgymnastics-dance.com For more information, contact Jennifer Almeida at 978-256-4815.

Junior Varsity hockey team off to great start

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High School JV boys hockey team has started the season off on fire winning its first six games. Earlier in the season, the Wildcats knocked off North Reading twice by 9-1 and 9-2 scores, as well as Newburyport, 9-0, Methuen, 4-0, Chelmsford 1-0 and Shawsheen Tech, 3-0.

"The early games were all close early and as the games went on we got stronger and wore down the opponents," said coach Chip Bruce. "More recently we have started slowly and I don't feel the intensity that I did early. I'm hoping the early success isn't getting in the way of playing the system the way it is designed. My expectations are that the team will get back to playing the way they did early and continue to work hard. My motto for the team this year is 'fast, physical, and furious' and that should be the formula for success."

Last year the JV team had tremendous success and it shows with players such as Jared Ravagni, Jared Hayes, Pat Boudreau, Sean Tavares and Jeff Harris who all made the leap up to the varsity club and have made an immediate impact there. This year's roster seems like an exact duplicate of last year's.

"As in years past the recipe for success is hard work," said Bruce. "I have another team that is willing to work hard. We had a large freshman class last year and many of those players are with me again this year. That returning nucleus sets a great example for the current freshmen. The returning players understand what makes our system work and they are selfless enough to share the limelight and the workload."

The 2007-'08 JV roster consists of 19 players. Up front, Bruce has 12 forwards including a trio mix of Chris Thibault with Frankie Sorrentino and Matt Kincaid. Ryan Derian was paired up with Brendan Collins and Brian Coutu, but the latter is currently sidelined with a broken collarbone. Kyle Creedon, Colin Foley, Paul Duffy, John Moriarty, Andy Owens and Brendan O'Brien are the other returning forwards.

The defensive group consists of Charles Barbaro, Cole Carter, Tom Quilty, Jon Langerfeld, Brian Hurley, John Malone, Pat Parker and Kevin Moriarty, while, Ryan Maskell is the team's goalie.

"The freshman class was another large one and all are contributing," said Bruce. "The class included several defensemen and they are playing well. There is a combination of size, speed and hockey sense in that group of defensemen that is a huge plus for near future. Up front, the new players are quick and aggressive. That formula has paid dividends early and should for years to come."

Bruce added that as long as the players adapt to the program's system, work hard, and be solid student-athletes, there should be no reason why this year's JV group can't keep the winning ways going once they reach the varsity level.

"Due to the expense of ice time, we don't practice very often," he said. "The fact that we continue to play well is a credit to the boys. They listen to instruction and normally follow it. The system of play at Wilmington High has been the same for many years. It is a simple concept but it requires hard work and dedication from the players. We ask all of our players to be disciplined in the system of play and when they are they have success. It is especially evident up front."

"When our forwards are running the forecheck the way it is designed there are not many teams that we play that are capable of withstanding the pressure we bring. As the games go on we normally see the other teams wear down and then the goals come in bunches."

The Wildcats will be back in action on Friday with a road game against Masconomet beginning at 3:50 pm.

The Town Crier will be featuring all of the subvarsity sports teams throughout the winter. Look for the other teams in future editions.

Reading teen is Civil Air Patrol Cadet Chief Master Sergeant Kelly Buck

By PAUL FEELY

It's not uncommon for high school students these days to take to a field to practice moves and maneuvers as part of a team. It is unusual when those drills are conducted as part of an auxiliary unit of the United States Air Force.

Reading teen Cadet Chief Master Sergeant (C/CMSgt) Kelly Buck of the Beverly Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol recently completed the requirements for the Neil Armstrong Award and was presented with the award ribbon during the closing formation of a recent meeting of the Beverly Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

C/CMSgt Buck is a Senior at Austin Preparatory School in Reading Massachusetts. During her four years in Civil Air Patrol C/CMSgt Buck has attended encampment, served on two Wing Champion Color Guard teams, attended National Cadet Special Activities Honor Guard Academy for three years in Westminster, Maryland where she earned "Honor and Pride" cadet Eagle Flight 2007 and earned the Cadet Recruiter Ribbon with clasp for recruiting four new members to CAP, including her Father and her Church's Associate Pastor.

"I really enjoy it," said Buck. "I would recommend it to anyone."

A member of the Beverly Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, Cadet Chief Master Sergeant Buck is the Flight Sergeant for Alpha Flight. Outside CAP and School, Sergeant Buck enjoys playing the piano, puzzles, Anime and 22 cal target shooting as a member of the Massachusetts Junior Olympic team. She is currently working on her NRA Expert rating.

She first joined CAP four years ago.

"I enjoy the drills," said Buck. "I like the exercises we engage in, the topics we cover in the aeronautics field. It teaches you discipline, in ways that I enjoy."

In addition to the Unit Citation C/CMSgt Buck has earned the General J. F. Curry Achievement, General Hap Arnold Achievement, Mary Feik Achievement, Wright Brothers Achievement, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker Achievement, Charles Lindbergh Achievement, General Jimmy Doolittle Achievement, Dr. Robert H. Goddard Achievement, Neil Armstrong Achievement, Red Service Ribbon, Cadet Community Service Award, three National Cadet Special Activity Awards, Two Cadet Recruiter Awards, Two National Color Guard Competition Awards and one Encampment Award.

"Everything I have learned through CAP, you can take and apply it to everything you do," said Buck.

The Neil Armstrong Award is the fifth achievement in the Leadership Phase of the cadets program. There is no grade promotion for this achievement, but there is a ribbon. The requirements for this award are for the cadet to write an essay, make a classroom presentation based on the essay and pass a physical training test. By this point in the program this set of tasks is well within the reach of the cadets.

The Neil Armstrong award is named after the legendary astronaut who was the first human being to set foot on the lunar surface. Neil Armstrong was a professor of Aerospace Engineering at the University of Cincinnati. He also served as chairman of Computing Technologies for Aviation, Inc., located in Charlottesville, Va.

Civil Air Patrol's Cadet Programs is designed to provide youth, from sixth grade through age 20, with a safe, encouraging environment in which to learn, mature and explore opportunities to help them reach their potential as adults.

Cadets participate in a structured program through group and individual activities that include aerospace education, physical training, leadership, and moral and ethical values. The program encompasses 16 achievement levels that include study in these four areas. Upon completion of each achievement, the cadet earns increased cadet rank, decorations, awards, eligibility for national and international special activities, and an opportunity for flight and academic scholarships.

The program aims to produce well-rounded, confident young people equipped to meet the challenges of adulthood. Civil Air Patrol, the official U.S. Air Force Auxiliary, is a civilian, volunteer, nonprofit, service organization. The unpaid members perform more than 85 percent of inland search and rescue missions as tasked by the Air Force Rescue and Coordination Center.

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"Juno"

JENNIFER GARNER, LEFT, AND JASON BATEMAN play a wealthy suburban couple in their 30s and Ellen Page is the pregnant teen who answered their classified ad seeking a baby to adopt in the movie 'Juno.'

"JUNO"
GRADE: ****

'Juno' is the surprise of the year. Funny, smart, and never condescending, it tells the unlikely story of what happens when an alarmingly precocious teen-ager gets pregnant and confronts her dilemma with uncharacteristic maturity.

The film's biggest surprise comes in the minimal approach taken by Jason Reitman. The second time director mainly lets his cast follow the script.

Reitman has also developed enough as a director so that he knows when to add some of the many minor colorful touches that add so much to his movie, such as the goofy, periodic appearances of the track team, who fleetingly and unexpectedly run by at odd times.

Ellen Page plays Juno MacGruff, the self-assured youngster who becomes pregnant when she has her first sexual experience with her best friend, the meek Paulie Bleeker (Michael Sera). She considers abortion, even to the point of calling for an appointment.

After much debating and soul-searching, all of which is hilarious and self-deprecating, Juno opts for adoption, bestowing her future ward on a wealthy but superficial young couple, played effectively by Jennifer Garner and Jason Bateman.

They play Vanessa and Mark, the upwardly mobile, seemingly perfect couple Juno finds through the classifieds.

At a meeting with the couple and their lawyer, Juno asks if they can't keep the arrangement old school, like Moses in the reeds?

"That would be kicking it Old Testament," Mark chimes in.

Juno grows larger in size but also in maturity, and seemingly, in her infinite capacity for finding the dark humor in her situation. She also finds comfort through a pair of understanding parents (Allison Janney and J.K. Simmons, both perfect), who help us understand where Juno acquires her humor, good-natured disposition, and level outlook.

'Juno' convincingly conveys the physical discomfort and the social alienation felt by its title character. But, even in transmitting such authenticity, it remains good-hearted, optimistic, and awkwardly funny.

"CHARLIE WILSON'S WAR"

GRADE: ****

As entertaining and light-hearted as Charlie Wilson's War is (the movie is a look at how one obscure Texas congressman finagled covert funding to buy weapons for the Mujahideen in Afghanistan to fight the Soviet Union), there is an ugly gorilla in the room with you as you are laughing at the jokes.

History tells us what happened. The Afghans triumphed, driving the Red Army from their country. A few years later the Berlin Wall fell and the Soviet Union was no more.

You can trace it all back to that booze-living congressman Charlie Wilson.

Wilson (Tom Hanks) was aided in his endeavor by Joanne Herring (Julia Roberts), a fervent anti-Communist Texas socialite, and Gust Avrakotos (Philip Seymour Hoffman), a CIA operative.

Prodded by Herring's belief that the U.S. response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan was feeble, Wilson reluctantly sets out to increase the CIA's budget for covert operations to the freedom fighters.

Despite his good ol' boy image, Wilson was an astute politician with a sharp mind and big heart.

His position on various committees allowed him to collect favors, which he used to begin, with the help of Avrakotos, to get arms to the Mujahideen through third parties in order to hide U.S. involvement in the scheme.

Hanks is again perfect, under the direction of Mike Nichols. Hanks' Wilson is comical, wise, compassionate and conniving.

Roberts is brainy, beautiful and sexy as the sixth richest woman in Texas.

It is Hoffman, though, who steals the movie. His Avrakotos is a blunt-speaking operative who is like a bull in a China shop. He does not care for social amenities. His only focus is to get the job done.

A witty script by Aaron Sorkin keeps Charlie Wilson's War moving at a rapid clip.

Back to that gorilla in the room with you. The weight of current events in Iraq and Afghanistan push at the back of your mind as you watch the film.

The weapons that the U.S. supplied the freedom fighters are being used by those same men, now calling themselves the Taliban, to fight those who helped secure their freedom in the first place.

The movie offers a clear lesson. At the end, Wilson urges his fellow congressmen to continue funding for Afghanistan so the nation could rebuild its schools and infrastructure, but with the fighting over, the request was ignored.

History has shown us the deadly consequences of that decision.

MIDDLESEX EAST School in Reading Ma, has four local seniors named to the Catholic Central large league all-star team for football, including CLANCY MAIN OF NORTH READING, AND STEVE BOGHOS FROM WAKEFIELD.

BOWDOIN COLLEGE SENIOR NICK FIGUEIREDO (WILMINGTON, MASS.) earned the NESCAC's top award in Men's Soccer All-Conference honors.

Figueiredo was named the New England Small College Athletic Conference Player of the Year.

Figueiredo, Bowdoin's all-time leader in points (88) and goals (35) becomes the first Polar Bear to earn NESCAC Player of the Year, breaking a string of seven-straight winners from Williams. A prolific scorer, Figueiredo paced the Polar Bears in scoring for the second-straight fall, recording 10 goals and 11 assists for a career-high 31 points. He led the conference in points and was second in goals scored, he was able to break the program's 35-year old goal-scoring record and earn his third-straight First-Team All-NESCAC selection.

As a member of the 2007 Rensselaer women's soccer team, READING'S HEATHER LAUTMAN (Captain of the 2006 RMHS girls soccer team) layed in 12 games, including 10 as a starter. About the Towns by Phyllis Nissen

2008: A CONTINUING TALE

Same old, some new (Stoneham)

"In his brief eight-month tenure in office, he's witnessed a failed $2.9 million override, hired both a new police and fire chief, watched as a $200 trash fee was imposed, and reached for several new revenue streams to help Stoneham weather its latest financial crisis," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"For Town Administrator David Ragucci, sitting in Town Hall's corner office and acting as Stoneham's CEO, despite that whirlwind of activity, is just the place to be.

"And with $1.4 million in free cash recently certified by the state, an October Town Meeting looming on the horizon, several union contracts still to be negotiated, and at least a $700,000 deficit forecasted for next year, Ragucci's workload certainly isn't getting any lighter soon.

"Last week, The Stoneham Independent sat down with the former Mayor of Everett as he reflected on his eight-months on the job, and the direction he'd like to steer the town towards in the months ahead.

"His responses are as follows:

"SI: How do you like being TA so far?

"Ragucci: I love the challenge of this job. I have a good group of managers, a very supportive Board of Selectmen, and a good employee base to make some improvements.

"SI: Do you have any regrets?

"Ragucci: Not at all. It's a great community and I thrive on the challenges. I'm very happy to be here.

"SI: What surprised you about Stoneham when you first arrived?

"Ragucci: I had very limited experience with or knowledge of Stoneham. It's such a nice bedroom community that's so well laid-out. You have your municipal buildings in clusters and playgrounds and parks that are centrally located to the population. Town Meeting was also a surprise to me. Obviously it was my first one and I was pleasantly surprised.

"SI: In what ways did your political experience as Mayor of Everett prepare you for becoming Town Administrator in Stoneham?

"Ragucci: Managing Everett, being at least twice the size of everything in Stoneham, prepared me well. What I learned there is that if you have a good staff and good people around you, it's easy to manage well. That's what I had and Everett and I have that here. I think I brought a little bit of the city in me here, in that a lot of assets in Stoneham haven't been utilized. Of course, dealing with the people and the issues, although not on the same scale as in Everett, is the same everywhere" by previous chairs,' said Drutman.

"Drutman said that at the urging of fellow Board member Arthur Bourque, she would approach the year's goals from more of a business perspective.

"The goals were broken down into four categories, highlighting areas of need in the town. These areas were finances, organizational management, facilities and infrastructure and planning.

"All of these steps are in place to move forward,' said Drutman of her goals. 'They're not just verbiage.'

"Her fellow Board members were positive about the goals Drutman had come up with and the benefits they could provide to the town.

"I think your goals are ambitious and applaudable,' said Bourque, who was pleased with goals related to recreation needs.

"Drutman's fourth finance goal sparked some discussion. The chair felt that with the amount of developable land in town diminishing, it was important to look around and acquire land that is strategically placed. Drutman ruled out the possibility of eminent domain.

"You never know when an opportunity is going to come up,' said Town Administrator Bill Gustus. 'If the funds are available, it makes it easier to move quickly.'

"Goals 1 and 2 were admittedly the same as the previous year's. Drutman assured the Board that Gustus would continue to meet with boards and committees to break it down and make sure they are accomplished...."

FY08 goals well underway (Lynnfield)

"At the Board of Selectmen's meeting, Chairman Darlene Drutman unveiled 16 goals for the Selectmen in FY08," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"The goals were called ambitious by Drutman, but she was confident that the Board had found a way to reach them all.

"I am building my agenda on top of the past plans made

BOYS AND GIRLS CLUB ART SHOW JANUARY 10

Youth from the Boys and Girls Club of Stoneham are having a local exhibit of their artwork in various types of media.

This is the first step to create artwork, being represented in the local exhibit. The work will be chosen to journey on from there to a regional competition where art will be judged and hopefully advanced to a national level.

The local exhibit is where it all begins. It gives the children an opportunity to see their work professionally before their families, friends and community.

This local exhibit will take again until the Greater Boston Track Club Invitational on Jan. 20.

READING MEMORIAL HIGH SCHOOL was recently honored with the prestigious Dalton Award. This award, given annually by the Boston Globe, serves to congratulate the teams with the highest overall winning percentage for all combined sports teams. Out of all of the Division 2 teams, the Rockets earned the second highest winning percentage (71.32%). Only North Andover scored higher; their 72% winning percentage barely surpassed the Rockets..

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The quarterback was current New Orleans Saints QB Drew Brees.

School Notes

BLUE RIBBON & BLUEPRINT

Setting high standards (Reading)

"Superintendent Patrick Schettini congratulated the Joshua Eaton Elementary School at the School Committee meeting for being the latest Reading school to earn the coveted Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School designation," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The award is presented by Blue Ribbon Schools of Excellence, Inc., a non-profit organization that facilitates school improvement through an assessment program, and serves as a clearinghouse of best practices information for schools across the country."

"To be named a Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School, schools go through an assessment process and must meet or exceed criteria in nine categories. The designation lasts for three years, at which time schools can apply for revalidation. Blue Ribbon Lighthouse schools are held up as national examples in providing mentoring and guidance in school improvement initiatives."

"Schettini said Reading is the only district he knows of that is using the Blue Ribbon standards to inform the overall District Improvement Plan, and that the standards will be applied to each school."

"We will see this kind of celebration in each of our schools over the next few years," he said.

"The designation is not an award, but an ongoing improvement model that must be sustained over time," he said.

"Both of Reading's middle schools, Parker and Coolidge, have earned Blue Ribbon status...."

Multi-year achievement (Woburn)

"School Supt. Dr. Carl Batchelder hopes to bridge the gap between the administrative and classroom environments and better integrate technology across the district in the school year," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"During the most recent School Committee meeting, the superintendent unveiled his goals for the 2007-2008 year, which are linked to the district's multi-year 'blueprint for student achievement.'"

"The blueprint acts as guidance for moving the school system forward and Batchelder's annual evaluations are based upon his progress in implementing each of the milestones listed on the document."

"According to the superintendent, with much of the district focused on MCAS math performance, he plans to offer a new professional development course this year that seeks to better equip principals with the skills needed to integrate that goal amongst administrators and classroom teachers."

"As we look at MCAS, clearly we felt that we need to look at a professional development series that focuses on math and science skills. There's also other listings such as creating communities and cultures within a building," said Batchelder.

"Our hope is that they will match up, so the principal is better skilled to support what happens in the classroom," the superintendent added.

"The superintendent also hopes to better utilize technology assets available to teachers and administrators. Citing one such tool, administrators are hoping to encourage teachers to use an electronic gradebook, which automatically computes final grades, making use of the electronic report card system easier."

"Batchelder also wants to use a new software program that allows staff members to share information such as curriculum data and lesson plans, on the internal computer network...."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867 or to schooltowns@comcast.net. We welcome student writing.

Civil Air Patrol's Kelly Buck

From S-1

Volunteers also take a leading role in aerospace education and conduct one of America's finest youth programs through CAP Cadet Programs.

Civil Air Patrol was conceived in the late 1930s by legendary New Jersey aviation advocate Gill Robb Wilson, who foresaw aviation's role in war and general aviation's potential to supplement America's military operations. With the help of New York Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, the new Civil Air Patrol was established on December 1, 1941, just days before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

The CAP insignia, a red three-bladed propeller in the Civil Defense white-triangle-in-blue-circle, began appearing on private aircraft everywhere. CAP initially planned only on liaison and reconnaissance flying, but the civilian group's mission expanded when German submarines began to prey on American ships off the coast of the United States and CAP planes began carrying bombs and depth charges."

A CAP crew first interrupted a sub attack on a flight out of Rehoboth Beach, saving a tanker off Cape May, N.J. Since radio calls for military bombers were often unproductive, unarmed CAP fliers dived in mock attacks to force subs to break and run.

The CAP coastal patrol flew 24 million miles, found 173 submarines, attacked 57, hit 10 and sank two. By Presidential Executive Order, CAP became an auxiliary of the Army Air Forces in 1943.

A German commander later confirmed that coastal U-boat operations were withdrawn from the United States "because of those damned little red and yellow airplanes."

In all, CAP flew a half-million hours during the war, and 64 CAP aviators lost their lives in the line of duty.

The U.S. Air Force was created as an independent armed service in 1947, and CAP was designated as its official civilian auxiliary the following year.

There are more than 800 Civil Air Patrol members in Massachusetts. The Beverly Composite Squadron meets at 6:45 PM every Wednesday evening at the Beverly Municipal Airport in the old Tower building.

For more information about Civil Air Patrol, Beverly Composite Squadron, Beverly Municipal Airport call 978-921-5454 or Civil Air Patrol National Headquarters at 1-800-FLY-2338. A great buy at $399k

This home is a lot of house for the money! The current owner remodeled this nice home from its' previous ranch style to its' current colonial style, adding the second floor in 2001. Take a walk inside and view this home with a total of 10 rooms, 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths and has almost 2,700 square feet of living space!

If you have a big family, or just like big "get togethers", there's enough room for everyone in the 27 x 12 dining room with gleaming hardwood floors. It may be too late for this Christmas, but get ready for next year's holidays and invite everyone!

Also on the first floor, there is a new kitchen, living room with a fireplace, family room (or kids' play room), a 20 x 11 heated sunroom, half bath with laundry, and an office for those who occasionally, or frequently, work from home.

On the second floor, you have a master bedroom with private full bath, two other bedrooms and another full bath. Owner has installed all new wall-to-wall carpets throughout the second floor within the last year. All the bedrooms could easily accommodate queen-king size furniture. They are that big! There is also an unfinished walk-up attic with 16' ceiling for future expansion, should you need more space!

Did we mention...if you need to take that commuter train to work, it's within walking distance!

Round out this great home with central air conditioning, new roof, a one-car garage, new windows and a great back yard and what more would you need? This is truly a great value in today's market. Call us today for your private showing. Fudge Properties, 474 Main Street, Wilmington 978-658-7300 or visit us online at www.fudgeproperties.com
